Or maybe even having them write letters and send photos if a trip is too much...

Thanks for listening!

Hi Charlene,

I'm reaching out to you with a request. It's an idea I had last night and you're one of the first to hear it.. its regarding the old growth protesting at Fairy Creek.

I'm not sure how much you follow what's going on out there, but it's a very sad image most days. That being said, I believe this is the first time there has been real hope to create change and to save the world in our own way.

I was wondering if it would be possible to have some sort of a field trip for the kids to join in the fight to protect these old trees. If the children came, the way its being handled might change, perhaps more would listen and support. Maybe the right media sources would grab it and run with it. It could be an educational trip to teach them about the trees or it could be anything you see fit.. but it just seems like what's being done is not enough, and maybe this could help.

Anyway, I'm not from the blockade or any sort of activist really. Just a concerned parent, and lover of nature.

Sending good vibes your way,

Thanks so much for your time.
